Fiat Fullback

More than ever before, the importance of reliable transport and deliveries is essential to the way we live. Whether it's consumers ordering goods online, the supply chain for manufacturers, or the tradesman who relies on his vehicle, hard-working and trustworthy professional vehicles are essential.

Fiat Professional offers an outstanding and award-winning range of vans and pick-ups, all of which are available for you to see and try at T H WHITE's Fiat Group Brand Centre, Hillmead, Swindon. Even better is the fact that in 2018 you can get on the road with one of these rugged workhorses from less than £170 per month ex-VAT* with Business Contract Hire.

Ideal for farmers and, surveyors and tradesmen, the Fiat Fullback double cab pick-up can take five adults in comfort with a 1 tonne load capacity on the cargo bed.

The Fiorino city van is a compact vehicle which nevertheless packs in up to 2.8m³ of cargo space with the flexibility of side access doors. The Fiat Doblò is something a little bigger with the options of high roof, long wheelbase or flatbed styles, while for larger transport tasks the Fiat Talento medium van and Ducato large van are available in a range of door, roof and body configurations.

GROUND CARE GROWING TEAM WELCOMES BUDDING NEW RECRUITS

T H WHITE's Groundcare Division has welcomed two new recruits in recent weeks, representing an investment from the company in both the growth of the division and continuous improvement in customer service.

Mike Taylor

MIKE TAYLOR joins the team as a Groundcare sales representative, coming from a technical background in parts and service management. "My career so far has been quite varied, with roles in the motor industry as a parts manager and senior service advisor, through to service dispatch manager at a bio-chemical technology company.

"In June 2017 I joined the T H WHITE team as a parts advisor which gave me experience in the groundcare industry, complemented by my knowledge and previous experience in customer service, parts and management. In September I learned that the team was seeking a sales representative and jumped at the chance to use what I had learnt so far to work more closely in the field supporting customers and growing the business. I was offered the job and started on 1 November, covering the Hampshire area working out of the Stockbridge branch.

"One month in and I'm really enjoying my role within the team, and looking forward to a successful 2018 developing lots of positive relationships with customers in my area!"

With Mike moving into the Sales department of the division, new parts advisor NIEL PORTSMOUTH joined the team in December with a wealth of stock and parts experience.

Niel Portsmouth

"Most recently I worked for a local business installing, servicing and repairing industrial roller doors, but prior to that the bulk of my experience comes from 22 years in the armed forces. As a squadron quartermaster my responsibilities ranged from ordering and providing full weapon systems and any parts, following repair procedures to working on active duty both in the UK and abroad. For a period after leaving the Army I worked as a tree surgeon so have a good working knowledge of chainsaws and wood chipping equipment too.

"I'm a real team player and believe that nothing is impossible if you have the right mindset. My role as part of the team at T H WHITE involves everything from customer service, ordering stock, sorting, packing, distribution and front of house in our parts store. With my experience in tree surgery, my focus will eventually include managing the parts for our Jensen woodchipper range.

"I'm really looking forward to becoming a fully-fledged member of the T H WHITE family and getting involved in the varied aspects of my new role."

ENERGY, FIRE & SECURITY MEET YOUR 'FACILITIES MANAGEMENT' TEAM

A question we are often asked is why T H WHITE has grouped Energy, Fire and Security into one Division. Well, the answer is neatly articulated in the Division's purpose: 'Helping customers make buildings safer, greener and more efficient for generations.'

Massively increased awareness of the requirement to protect staff, their livelihoods and their working environments – and to do so in a way that is sustainable and efficient – is leading facilities managers and building developers to seek comprehensive and easily managed solutions.

In response to this need, T H WHITE's business is constantly evolving to meet market needs and today provides service contracts covering fire and security systems for facilities management (FM) providers and facilities managers, estate managers and commercial property owners. We now support major FM clients including two local authorities, two police forces and two fire services.

We also have specialists in the newer areas of solar power, electric vehicle charging and battery storage, as well as engineers experienced in the application of the latest technologies to fire and security, as well as the growing important area of CCTV surveillance.

It's a logical grouping, especially as the key disciplines embraced by the Division involve electrical installations. Supporting that, the Division also supplies and maintains portable fire extinguishers, access systems and security gates and barriers.

The public-facing team which takes pride in looking at every challenge in an individual way and proposing bespoke solutions is led by head of sales Carl Clarke who works with regional representatives Luke Roche and Barry Hemmings.

"As you might imagine, there was a surge in solar energy installations when the government incentives were strong," says Carl. "Many of our customers have benefited enormously from being able to generate much of the electricity they use as well as receiving payments for feeding energy to the national grid – schemes which will continue for years to come.

"That in itself has brought new challenges as solar panels need to be cleaned regularly and maintained to ensure maximum efficiency. In this respect we have been able to help many solar panel users whose original installers have ceased trading. That's a real advantage of using a broadly-based company like T H WHITE that has strength and longevity – in fact we have been trading since 1832!"

EF&S SALES TEAM: Luke Roche (South West/Central representative), Carl Clarke (Head of Sales) and Barry Hemmings (Southern Counties representative).

"Despite the reduction of many of the incentives, solar energy installations remain popular but the economics just have to be approached in a different way. Many businesses are able to generate a large proportion of the energy they use, and where there is a surplus we help with high-tech battery installations that can store energy for use at times when the solar panels may not be generating. The latest batteries also make it possible for users to draw energy at times of lower cost – during the night for example – and store it for use at peak times."

Newest recruit to T H WHITE's EF&S team is Luke Roche who joined last September. Coming from a background in alarms and security Luke is area sales manager for the South West/Central territory comprising Gloucestershire, Somerset and Oxfordshire.

"Changes to legislation mean that businesses have to carry out more regular fire assessments," says Luke, "and customers are seeing the benefits of using a single company for fire protection and security. When they discover that T H WHITE has the capability to do so much more for them – including assessments and maintenance – they realise they can fulfil their obligations more easily."

Barry Hemmings serves clients mainly in areas south of the M4, covering Wiltshire, Hampshire and Dorset and parts of the West Country. Having been in the industry for over 20 years, he started as an engineer which has given him an understanding of the complexities involved in certain installations.

"At the moment," Barry observes, "the big growth areas are security and CCTV surveillance systems, but the huge advances in electric vehicle technology mean that vehicle charging systems are rapidly becoming a major part of our business too. More and more we are helping customers to take a holistic view of their infrastructure requirements to provide solutions that are cost-effective and efficient."

ENERGY, FIRE & SECURITY

GRANT-FUNDED VEHICLE CHARGING POINT

December saw the T H WHITE Energy, Fire & Security team installing its first grant-funded electric vehicle charge point where the client was able to claim £500 (inc VAT) towards the installation costs.

The client has a hybrid Volvo car and is about to take ownership of an additional new fully-electric car and so needed an additional electrical charging point which had to be suitable for all makes of car.

For this installation we used a single phase home charger from EVOLT, for whom T H WHITE is the main installation partner in our region. This unit charges at 7kw/hour and can provide significant savings versus diesel or petrol fuel. This installation was to a relatively simple specification as it's for the client's own use, but if it had been for a business we could offer full back office support 3G or WiFi solutions which allow you to sell your power to other users or visitors on-site.

We can supply and fit electric vehicle chargers from 7kw, up to high capacity superchargers supporting all makes of vehicle for public charging locations.

The electric vehicle charging point is suitable for all electric vehicles and is installed in an unobtrusive location.

As reported widely by the media, the UK government is pushing very hard for electric vehicle growth as part of its Low Carbon Infrastructure Plan.

As a result, T H WHITE has been gearing up to provide customers with a full range of solutions from simple single phase home charging points to workplace solutions for your own or staff use, or to sell electricity on a business basis.

Call us on 01380 726656, or email energy@thwhite.co.uk.
