IN THE PINK WITH CASE IH

It all started when Robert Banwell needed a new baler at Mill Farm, Wedmore, on the Somerset levels. After looking at the market and talking with T H WHITE's Stuart Crook, he decided on a Case IH RB455 round baler – but he wanted his new baler to be a little different!

A member of Robert's family had been receiving treatment for breast cancer and in recognition of the help she had been given Robert decided that the baler should be finished in the pink shade that has come to symbolise breast cancer awareness.

The T H WHITE Pro Agri team were delighted to co-operate with Robert's request and the new baler was duly despatched to Barnes Coachworks in Frome who completed a superb spray paint transformation. As soon as it was delivered to the farm the baler was put to work to produce the extensive stock of hay bales that Robert needs for his popular livery yard. The Case IH BR455 was more than equal to the job, making hundreds of tight and dense bales ready for the year ahead, but Robert's poor old tractor was struggling. The new baler was altogether bigger and heavier than Robert's old one so he decided the time was probably right for a new tractor as well. Of course, it would have to be pink..!

After further discussion with Stuart Crook, Robert Banwell decided on a Case IH Luxxum 110. "The Luxxum is perfect for the job," he says.

"While being modestly sized and economic, it has plenty of power to drive the baler and the rear end is built to cope with the extra weight. The 110 sits in the middle of the range and its specification is outstanding for a tractor of this size, making it a pleasure to use."

T H WHITE again arranged for the new tractor also to be sent to Barnes Coachworks and when it returned not only was Case IH insignia applied, but also the pink ribbon breast cancer logo. The finished tractor was delivered to Mill Farm at the end of July so missed this year's baling, but Robert is looking forward to using the combo in 2020.

One thing is certain – if you are around the Wedmore area and you see a pink tractor on the road, you'll know who's driving it!

ARC LITHIUM POWER TO OUTPERFORM PETROL

New to T H WHITE Country Store is the revolutionary EGO Range of electric garden tools and mowers.

These state of the art garden tools have been designed from the ground up to deliver petrol-matching performance. All tools in the EGO Power+ range are powered by the same patented 56v Arc Lithium battery which is like no other, delivering impressive run-time and performance. Unlike conventional brick-shaped batteries, where the cells are packed together and are prone to overheating and shutting down, the unique Arc design dissipates heat more effectively.

As well as being much kinder to the environment than petrol-driven tools, the EGO Power+ system can also save you a lot of money. Take the hedge trimmer, for example. A full charge will keep you going all day and will cost around 30p at current prices. To do equivalent work with a petrol trimmer you would use around three litres of fuel at a cost of £1.93 for 2 stroke or £4.00 for 2 stroke premium mix. Over a year your savings could amount to more than £1,000.

What's more, with the supplied charger, the battery can be fully charged and ready to go in as little as 30 minutes. Comfortable to use, with far less noise, fuss or fumes, EGO tools are kinder to your hands, ears, wallet and the environment.

All EGO Power+ products come with a domestic user two-year warranty. An additional three years on tools and one year on batteries applies when the product is registered within 30 days of purchase. The warranty for commercial users is 12 months.

GROUND CARE

A NEW KIND OF SHOWER AT THE GOLF CLUB

A key element in the appeal of many British golf courses is the beautiful landscaping and topography. Leamington & County Golf club is a classic example - one of the very best parkland golf courses in Warwickshire.

But the undulating nature of the land and consequent drainage patterns can also present challenges, particularly during the long, hot, dry spells that are increasingly characterising our summers.

At Leamington, the grounds team were faced with areas of the course that drained freely and then dried out rapidly - to the point where it was becoming difficult to maintain the turf to the high standard demanded by the club. One solution could have been the installation of a buried irrigation system, but apart from the very high cost and the disruption of digging up parts of the course to lay pipes, it would not have delivered the instant flexibility of delivering water precisely when and where it was needed.

This is where T H WHITE was able to provide a solution. As part of the club's continual investment, grounds manager Jason Cooper was discussing the equipment he would need for the coming season with T H WHITE Groundcare representative Lee Miles, when he mentioned the irrigation problem. Lee remembered that T H WHITE's Agriculture Division is a dealer for Hi Spec tankers, onto a splash plate, creating a wonderful artificial rainstorm which covers about a 25m width."

The club has a reservoir tank fed by a local water course from which the Hi Spec tanker can be filled in about seven minutes. "The 800 gallons is enough for about two minutes' spraying on the fairways and in the recent hot spells we have been taking the tanker out up to 18 times a day," added Jason. "The great thing is that we have been able to put water exactly where it is most needed, reducing wastage and achieving some very noticeable improvements on the course."

Commenting on the innovation, Lee Miles said: "I was delighted to be able to offer a simple and effective solution. It's also a great example of being widely used by farmers mainly for slurry applications. The Hi Spec range starts with a single-axle tanker of 800 gallons capacity; Its laden weight was within the payload capacity of a tractor the Leamington club already had, and on large, soft tyres, ground impaction would be minimal.

"It turned out to be the perfect answer," says Jason. "The tanker incorporates a pump driven by the tractor PTO which jets the water out able to call upon resources across the T H WHITE Group, sourcing a piece of kit that wouldn't normally be in the Groundcare line-up."

The new tanker is just part of the club's investment this year to keep the 111-year-old course in top condition. As the photos show, this has included a new Jacobsen Fairway 250 mower, a Smithco Ultra Lite greens roller and a new Kawasaki 4wd Mule Pro DX UTV to augment the club's 2007 Kawasaki Mule - still going strong!

AGRICULTURE

One of the things we are most proud of at T H WHITE Agriculture is the depth of knowledge and personal experience among members of our team.

That's particularly true at our Frome branch where all our sales representatives have a farming background and have often learnt the best way to tackle a task or solve a problem by doing it themselves the hard way.

Our reps are not just going to come in to try and sell you something – they will actually look at what you are trying to achieve, talk through the options and spec-up the right machinery to give you the best solutions at the best price. The whole team at T H WHITE understands the importance of long term relationships, helping our customers to thrive through generations, advising on challenges and developments. On a day-to-day basis, the team will often be able to carry out on-farm fixes on-the-fly where farmers encounter problems with equipment.

As it's now 18 months since the branch relocated from the old Vallis Road site to new premises on the western edge of Frome, we felt it would be an appropriate moment to profile the operation. Probably the most modern premises in the T H WHITE group, it serves a vast area spanning Somerset, North Devon as well as parts of Wiltshire & Dorset. The area is strong in mixed farming, with many small to medium-sized family farms with an emphasis on beef and dairy, but with less dedicated arable farming than some of the other regions served by T H WHITE.

Much of the equipment we supply from Frome tends to be small to mid-range New Holland and Case IH tractors, telehandlers, grassland equipment, slurry equipment, agricultural trailers, a range of implements and our big baler flagship product. We also carry an extensive selection of used equipment.

Frome is also home to our Dairy Department managed by Nigel Ellis, who has been working closely with Agricultural Sales Director Ray Bennett to deliver a seamless and unified offering to dairy farmers. We will be looking at the Dairy Department in more detail in a future issue of White's World.

The sales team is fully supported by our sales administration colleagues – Dave Comer and Charlotte Osborne whose responsibilities include stock management and stock orders, processing sales orders, invoicing, warranty and delivery documentation across our wide range of machine franchises – together with Finance Specialist Faye Parsons.

A key part of our customer offering are our aftersales functions. The service workshop at Frome has been run by Dave Rideout for over 15 years with his team of experienced technicians and several apprentices. Like all T H WHITE workshops it is equipped with the latest diagnostic equipment and run by accredited, manufacturer-trained technicians. The

Come and see us in Frome – you will always find a warm welcome! We are at Marston Park, Bulls Quarries Road, Tytherington, Frome, Somerset, BA11 5BS, Telephone 01373 465941.

Frome Parts Store is run by Steve Marshman and his team who keep a large stock of agricultural and dairy parts with thousands of genuine lines in stock, all with guarantees and ready for collection.

Our Frome Sales team is made up of Stuart Crook, our T H WHITE Pro Agri specialist for Case IH, Joe Woolley and Jamie Harraway specialising in New Holland kit, and Bob Gallop our Slurry specialist. We thought the best way to help you get to know them would be to let them introduce themselves in their own words...

BOB GALLOP Slurry Specialist

Working at the mucky end of agriculture as T H WHITE's Slurry Specialist may not be everyone's idea of a dream job, but it's a very necessary part of the cycle that delivers real benefits to our customers.

Landing this plumb role didn't happen overnight – it seems almost unbelievable to me now that it's 45 years since I first joined T H WHITE as a mechanic, working my way up the tree over the ensuing 13 years to become Workshop Foreman. In 1989 I left for a two year spell at a Deutz tractor and RABl equipment dealership in Westbury, before embarking on a wonderful adventure running a Ford tractor dealership workshop in Tanzania. Exciting as that was, it played havoc with family life so I returned to T H WHITE in Frome as an Area Sales Representative. In 2013 the company decided to appoint a Slurry Specialist and I have been doing that job since then.

T H WHITE is a dealer for a select group of slurry equipment suppliers – Bauer for all fixed equipment, Hi Spec for tankers, Tramsread for umbilical equipment, Storth for auto scrapers and mixers and Vogelsang for applicators. Being able to represent them in this small sector of the vast agricultural industry means that I can offer a comprehensive and professional service. The territory I cover stretches from Hereford to Weymouth – with customers in all areas of livestock farming.

One of the most interesting innovations to have arisen in my time as Slurry Specialist has been the advent of the green bedding system in which cow slurry is recycled to produce bedding. It's still controversial among farmers who have not yet experienced the quality of this odour-free and sterile product, but I now have more than a dozen very satisfied farmers using the system.

When away from the muck I enjoy delving in another kind of mud – as an avid gardener!

STUART CROOK T H WHITE Pro Agri Case IH

My introduction to agriculture came the hard way, with back-breaking work on the family pig farm with over 2,000 pigs. You can imagine my delight when I 'escaped' to Bath college to study building and construction, a booming industry at the time offering good money. A few fierce cold winters on construction sites soon changed my view of that and the warm, welcoming agricultural sector lured me back!

I started at a small Case IH agency – C E Davis & Co at Marshfield – and then moved to Boulter's of Banwell where I spent several years as a sales representative.

Now, with more than 30 years in the industry and at T H WHITE for 12 of them, I have been able to develop and use my knowledge of the full Case IH product line-up as a specialist at T H WHITE Pro Agri in Frome.

There's nothing like first-hand knowledge of what goes into the products you are dealing with so I attend as many supplier factory tours as I can to learn about engines, drivetrains, hydraulics and, of course, new products.

When I'm out talking to customers I know I'm not just there to sell something – I am bringing them the whole T H WHITE infrastructure which extends from the service and parts back-up at their local branch, right through to the functions provided by Group support to ensure that they always benefit from the latest knowledge and information, the best offers and health & safety aspects. The company has a long history and a solid future – and there aren't so many you can say that about in these challenging times.

I take pride in many of the great business relationships I have been able to establish – not least the one with Bristol and South Gloucestershire Council. Whenever I see one of the red T H WHITE Pro Agri tractors at work in their neighbourhood it brings a smile to my face.

JAMIE HARRAWAY New Holland

I grew up on the family farm in Wrington which specialises in beef and sheep, as well as operating a livestock haulage business. I always knew that agriculture was where my future lay and I took a 3-year National Diploma in Agriculture at Cannington College before joining a farm near Bristol where I spent eight years gaining hands-on experience of dairy and arable activities.

After that I moved to Boulter Mead trailer centre where my daily tasks included sales administration, parts ordering and running the trailer workshop.

Eight months ago I took a step up by joining T H WHITE at Frome as a sales representative, becoming the newest member of the team there.

A typical day will find me either at the dealership configuring new machinery, or out on farm meeting customers.

And, if you would like a demo of a combine, baler, telehandler, tractor, drill, cultivator or any other piece of equipment, just give me a call.

JOE WOOLLEY New Holland

My dad managed a farm in Devizes where I grew up surrounded by farmers and farm machinery. I suppose I never really doubted that my career would be in agriculture and after leaving school I studied for an agricultural engineering degree at Harper Adams university. As part of that I spent a placement year working for New Holland aftersales at Basildon, covering UK & Europe. That was a tremendous year, working as part of a large team, learning how machines are built and – even more importantly – which parts are most subject to wear and eventual failure, and how to fix them! That training was invaluable, giving me a solutions-oriented attitude – fixing things, keeping them running and helping people.

Following university I became a fitter in T H WHITE's Marlborough workshop, initially specialising in combines, subsequently moving to Frome where I gained experience on tractors. In 2015 I was successful in applying for a sales role, which I've been doing ever since. Being fully trained in both sales and service has proved extremely useful – I have been able to make quite a few impromptu fixes on farms!

A high that I'll always remember was the sale of two combines to Josh Stratton at J M Stratton & Co, Codford, which placed me in the top New Holland UK sales tier that year, winning an all-expenses paid trip to Barcelona to watch Spanish Grand Prix.

I love the buzz of big sales, meeting people, together with all the coffee and chat. Things have been so busy lately that I don't have a lot of time for hobbies, but I have just bought a house so there's plenty of DIY to do – and I'm passionate about shooting.

HARVEST 2020: PLAN EARLY TO SECURE THE BEST DEALS

Could it be that this year's harvest has made you start thinking about new kit ready for next year?

Although it's a bit of a cliché to say that big kit has long lead times, it's actually true. Not only is it important to think ahead to be sure that the machinery you need is built and delivered on time, but ordering early will allow you to specify all the exact options that you want.

And, because early orders also help our business planning, we are able to offer some great discounts, finance plans and other incentives that won't be available later.

We are currently finalising our 2020 harvest deals for both New Holland and Case IH machinery and the details will be in next month's White's World, but if you want to be at the head of the queue talk to our specialists in any T H WHITE Agriculture branch now who will be happy to advise and ensure your machinery is reserved on the very best terms.

KEEPING TABS

With agricultural crime on the rise it's more important than ever for farmers to be able to keep tabs on equipment – especially when it comes to unpowered items.

The new EasyTRACK asset tracker from Manitou provides a discreet and simple answer. This robust, weatherproof module and be installed easily on any item of equipment and is simple to activate.

Using the EasyMANAGER app, assets can be located instantly in the case of a theft attempt, while the 'ping-as-you-like' feature allows you to set any number of pings per day so that you can be alerted to any unexpected movements. At one ping per day the batteries can be expected to last 5½ years, while at five pings per day the battery life will be approximately one year.

The Manitou EasyTRACK is available from T H WHITE Agricultural parts stores at £504, with replacement batteries at £102.
